Saugeen Golf Course Bio

We are pleased to welcome Brennan Hagey as an assistant golf pro at Saugeen Golf Club this spring. Brennan is a Class A golf professional, becoming a teaching professional in 2019.

Although his teaching career has been short he has had the opportunity to study the golf swing and psychological aspects of the game for 25 years. One of his passions is coaching and instructing young individuals. We're pleased to have him taking the lead on the junior program. Brennan has previously run junior camps at Wildwinds Golf Course in Fergus, and was very successful with a strong understanding of balancing fun and excitement, with technical swing progression in language children can understand. His professional career has been centered on the development of athletic movements in skiing, tennis, golf and baseball. The goal of his lessons is to ultimately build confidence and confidence building is a skill he has developed as the Director of Recreation of Chicopee ski and summer resort to most recently director of the Mt Seymour snow school in North Vancouver and a coach for Travail baseball development.

His education in psychology at the University of Waterloo has given him the tools to provide great learning connections regardless of the student while customizing each session.
